RANDOLPH

Randolph County was formed from the county of Harrison in 1787 and included all of the present county of Tucker, all of Barbour County east of the Tygart Valley River, all of Upshur County east of the Buckhannon River, and a considerable portion of Pocahontas and Webster counties. It lost territory in 1821 when Pocahontas was formed; again in 1843 when Barbour came into existence; in 1851 when it gave up some of its territory to Upshur; in 1856 when 350 square miles were cut off to form Tucker; and another portion was incorporated into Webster County when that county was formed in 1860.

After all of these losses Randolph still is the largest county in the state. It was named for Edmund Jennings Randolph, governor of Virginia 1786-1788. The first non-native who settled in what is now West Virginia built his home on the headwaters of the Monongahela River. In this county occurred the first Indian massacre in the state. From that beginning, the county has been a historical center down to the present.

First 4-H Camp in the world was held in this county. Kumbrabow State Forest and part of the Monongahela National Forest are located in this county.

Rich Mountain Battlefield is located near Beverly, site of an important battle of the Civil War. Southeast of Huttonsville, on White Mountain (elevation over 4,000 feet), the federal forces maintained the highest fortified camp in the Civil War.

Leading industries and chief agricultural products: lumber, furniture, coal, clothing, shoes; potatoes, hay and grain, livestock, dairying.

RITCHIE

The government offices for Ritchie County are located in Harrisville. The first settler in the vicinity of Harrisville was Lawrence Maley, who arrived there in 1801. The area was originally known then as "Maley's Settlement." The town was platted in 1822 and chartered by the State of Virginia as Harrisville and named for Thomas Harris. The first post office was established on July 25, 1833, and was called Solus because a Harrisville post office already existed in the state of Virginia. The name was changed June 1, 1847, to Ritchie Court House, Virginia. It was changed again February 14, 1870 to Harrisville, West Virginia. Then on May 11, 1874 it was changed back to Ritchie Court House. The final change was made on August 19, 1895 to Harrisville, in honor of General Thomas M. Harris. General Harris was the nephew of Thomas Harris, for whom the town was originally named. General Harris was also one of the commissioners in the military trial of those accused of plotting the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln.

Ritchie County was formed in 1843 from parts of Wood, Harrison, and Lewis counties. When it was formed, it also included land that is now included in Doddridge and Pleasants counties. In the 1860s a small portion of what was Gilmer County was added to Ritchie County.

Ritchie County was named in honor of Thomas Ritchie, a distinguished early American journalist. Ritchie was the founder and editor of the Richmond Enquirer in 1804. The paper, under his leadership, became one of the leading newspapers in the country. As editor of the newspaper he championed the cause for the western counties of Virginia. Ritchie's uncle was Judge Spencer Roane, whom Roane County was named after.

There are numerous attractions in the county, including North Bend State Park and Lake and North Bend Rail Trail. This trail has numerous bridges and tunnels and is part of the 5,500-mile coast-to-coast American Discovery Trail. Also, W.Va. Route 47 is designated as part of a National Scenic Byway as it closely follows the original route of the historic Staunton-Parkersburg Turnpike.

Leading industries and chief agricultural products include: petroleum, natural gas, timber, window manufacturing, automobile carpet manufacturing, aluminum truck bed manufacturing, glass and glassware; livestock, hay and grain.
