The Governor's Committee on Crime, Delinquency and Correction

Juvenile Justice Subcommittee

The Division of Justice and Community Services serves as staff to the Juvenile Justice Subcommittee of the Governor's Committee on Crime, Delinquency and Correction, which was created in 1966 by executive order of the Governor to develop a statewide planning capacity for the improvement of the state's criminal justice system. The Juvenile Justice Subcommittee was established following the passage of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (JJDP) Act of 1974 to serve as the state advisory group to the Division of Justice and Community Services for the administration of juvenile funds received by West Virginia under the JJDP Act.

The goal of the West Virginia Juvenile Justice Subcommittee is to utilize a combination of Juvenile Justice Subcommittee funds and program funds to provide the necessary funding to research, develop and implement activities, support efforts to insure compliance with the core requirements of the JJDP Act as well as provide materials and programs which will benefit youth and all who are involved in the juvenile justice process in West Virginia.

Juvenile Justice Subcommittee Guiding Principles

The guiding principle of the Juvenile Justice Subcommittee is to prevent and reduce juvenile delinquency and to improve the juvenile justice system in West Virginia. This is done by subgranting funds to various private/nonprofit organizations, schools, state agencies, and local units of government for delinquency prevention efforts that address the needs of the targeted at risk youth population. Funding consideration will be given to projects that address these priorities:

- Interagency coordination of services for meeting the needs of targeted at-risk population.
- Alternative to school settings for youth who exhibit behavior problems to prevent those youth from dropping out of school.
- Opportunities for children and youth to build their self-esteem.
- Activities that reduce peer pressure.
- Projects that encourage parent involvement by establishing a parental component as a part of the programming efforts.
- Crisis intervention services for youth who are exposed to domestic violence.
- Youth advocacy services or court-appointed advocates for youth involved in the court system.
- Direct services to victims of child sexual and physical abuse and neglect, and activities for prevention/awareness of child abuse.
- School safety programs, such as conflict resolution, peer mediation and gun/weapon control, which will decrease the incidence of school violence.
- Assessment of interagency cooperation and responsiveness of state services to this youth population.
- Assessment of the individual progress of the youth participating in the program through pretests and post-tests.
- Written assessment by youth and parents regarding program satisfaction or weaknesses.
- Documented support of the program from the state.

The Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act Mandates

The Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (JJDP) Act, passed by Congress in 1974, authorized the States to administer local delinquency prevention and intervention efforts and juvenile justice system improvements. The goals of the JJDP Act are to insure appropriate services, due process, proper treatment and safe confinement of juveniles who are involved in the juvenile justice system. States must commit to achieve and maintain compliance with the following four core requirements of the JJDP Act:

1. Deinstitutionalization of Status Offenders (DSO)

A status offender (a juvenile who has committed an act that would not be a crime if committed by an adult) or nonoffender (such as a dependent or neglected child) cannot be held, with statutory exceptions, in secure juvenile detention or correctional facilities. Status offenders and nonoffenders cannot be detained or confined in adult facilities for any length of time.

2. Separation of Juveniles from Adult Offenders (Separation)

Alleged and adjudicated juvenile delinquents cannot be detained or confined in a secure institution (such as a jail, lockup or secure correctional facility) in which they have sight or sound contact with adult offenders.

3. Adult Jail and Lockup Removal (Jail Removal)

As a general rule, juveniles (individuals who may be subject to original jurisdiction of a juvenile court based on age and offense limitations established by State law) cannot be securely detained or confined in adult jails and lockups. The statute provides temporary hold exceptions for alleged and adjudicated delinquents and criminal misdemeanor offenders under conditions of separation and accepts juveniles waived or transferred to criminal court or felony charges.

4. Disproportionate Minority Contact (DMC)

States are required to address efforts to reduce the proportion of juveniles detained or confined in secure facilities, who are members of minority groups if such proportion exceeds the proportion such groups represent in the general population.

West Virginia's Compliance with the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (JJDP) Act

Plan For Removal Of Status Offenders And Non-offenders
From Secure Detention And Correctional Facilities - Section 223 (a)(12)(A)
De-institutionalization of Status and Non-offenders.

West Virginia juveniles who are charged with or who have committed offenses that would not be criminal if committed by an adult or alien juvenile in custody, such as non-offenders as dependent or neglected children, shall not be placed in secure detention facilities or secure correctional facilities.

The Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) have not completed its review and analysis of Deinstitutionalization of Status and Non-offenders (DSO). During Fiscal Year 2010, West Virginia had fifty-three DSO violations. Twenty of these violations occurred in six adult lockup facilities. These violations occurred when law enforcement officers placed status offenders or non-offenders in a secure holding area. Of these violations, nine were held on charges of incorrigibility, six were held for underage consumption of alcohol, three were held as runaways, and two were held as truants. The remaining thirty-three violations occurred in West Virginia's Juvenile Detention Centers. Seven of the thirty-three were housed at hardware secure centers. Of these, three were held as truants, two were held as runaways, and two were held as incorrigible. The remaining twenty-six violations occurred when a status offender was placed at a staff secure facility but for disciplinary reasons was transferred to an area of that facility that was determined to be hardware secure.

The twenty DSO violations that occurred in the adult lockup facilities were all violations of West Virginia Code §49-5-8 (c)(3) placing of these status offenders in a hardware secure area. The remaining thirty-three violations were violations of West Virginia Code §49-5-11a (b)(2) The twenty violations at adult lockup facilities were addressed by the "Training and Technical Assistance Blitz" that West Virginia administered during the second half of the monitoring year(Jan – Jun 2010). The seven violations that occurred in the hardware secure detention facilities were addressed in the new West Virginia Rules of Juvenile Procedures that became effective July 1, 2010.

The remaining twenty-six violations occurred at a Division of Juvenile Services facility. The nature of these violations has been discussed with the Director and Deputy Director of the Division of Juvenile Services. The Division of Juvenile Services is in the process of developing a new procedural protocol that will address these disciplinary problems without creating violations of the OJJDP Act. West Virginia will continue to provide training and technical assistance to secure and non-secure facilities. Regional trainings will be held in the upcoming year to address the specific needs and questions pertaining to the OJJDP Act.

The following West Virginia Case Law and statutes corroborate the JJDP Act.

West Virginia State Code §49-5-11 decriminalizes status offenders making it illegal to detain status offenders in secure facilities. Youth who are adjudicated status offenders are referred to the Department of Health and Human Resources for services.

West Virginia Case Law Facilities Review Panel v. Coe (1992) establishes standards that prohibit secure facilities from admitting status and non-offenders.

West Virginia Case Law C.A.H. v. Strickler (1979), states that “under no circumstances can a child adjudged delinquent because of a status offense be incarcerated in a secure, prison-like facility with children adjudged delinquent because of criminal activity.”

West Virginia Case Law Harris v. Calendine (1977), states that “under no circumstances can a child adjudged delinquent because of a status offense, i.e., and an act which if committed by an adult would not be a crime, be incarcerated in a secure, prison-like facility with children adjudged delinquent because of criminal activity.”

Plan For Separation Of Juveniles And Incarcerated Adults
Section 223(a)(13) Separation of Juveniles and Adult Offenders.

West Virginia juveniles alleged to be, or found to be delinquent, status offenders, and/or non-offenders shall not be detained or confined in any institution in which they have contact with adult persons incarcerated because they have been convicted of a crime or are awaiting trial on criminal charges or with the part-time or full-time security staff (including management) or direct-care staff of a jail or lockup for adults.

The Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) has not completed its review and analysis of Separation of Juvenile and Adult Offenders. Seventy-six violations occurred in five separate police department's adult lockup facilities. The breakdown of the violations are as follows: Department A had sixty-four, Department B had nine, Department C had one, Department D had one, and Department E had one. Department A is in the process of remodeling its processing area to create a separate area for processing juveniles. The new area will ensure separation of juveniles and adults. Department B has designated an area for holding juveniles, thereby potentially eliminating separation violations. The other three departments have received training and technical assistance to provide them with information and suggestions to avoid any future separation violations.

West Virginia will continue to provide training and technical assistance to secure and non-secure facilities. Regional trainings will be held in the upcoming year to address the specific needs and questions pertaining to the JJDP Act.

The West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals, Administrative Order, effective July 1, 1997, charges the Division of Justice and Community Services of the Department of Military Affairs and Public Safety to monitor compliance with the State and Federal standards for juvenile detention facilities. The State will notify JJDP if circumstances arise, or if resources are lost, which would jeopardize the State's capability to maintain compliance with the requirements of Section 222(a)(13).

The following West Virginia Case Law and statutes corroborate the JJDP Act.

West Virginia State Code § 49-5-16 paragraph (a) states that “no child, including one who has been transferred to criminal jurisdiction of the court, shall be detained or confined in any institution in which he or she has contact with or comes within sight and sound of any adult persons incarcerated because they have been convicted of a crime or are awaiting trial on criminal charges or with the security staff (including management) or direct-care staff of a jail or locked facility for adults.”

The State assures that adjudicated juveniles are not reclassified administratively and transferred to adult correction authority. Paragraph (b) of the above cited section states that “No child who has been convicted of an offense under the adult jurisdiction of the circuit court shall be held in custody in a penitentiary of this State....the child may be transferred from a secure juvenile facility to a penitentiary after he attains the age of eighteen years if, in the judgment of the Commissioner of the Department of Corrections and the court which committed such child, such transfer is appropriate.”

West Virginia Case Law M.N.L. v. Greiner (1987) created a “sight and sound” separation authority in stating that juveniles between the ages of 18 and 20 who remain under jurisdiction of the juvenile court may not be incarcerated within sight and sound of adult prisoners.”

There are no approved “Juvenile Detention Areas” in any adult jail or lockup in West Virginia at the present time.

Plan For Removal Of Juveniles From Adult Jails And Lockups
Section 223 (a)(14) Jail and Lockup Removal

West Virginia juveniles are not to be detained in any jail or lockup for adults. There is no approved juvenile detention of co-located areas in any adult jail or lockup in West Virginia at the present time.

The Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) have not completed its review and analysis of Jail and Lockup Removal. All of West Virginia's jail removal violations are Deinstitutionalization of Status and Non-offenders (DSO) violations that occurred in adult lockup facilities. In order to address our jail removal violations, West Virginia must eliminate DSO violations. West Virginia will continue to provide training and technical assistance to secure and non-secure facilities. Regional trainings will be held in the upcoming year to address the specific needs and questions pertaining to the JJDP Act.

The West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals, Administrative Order, effective July 1, 1997, charges the Division of Justice and Community Services of the Department of Military Affairs and Public Safety to monitor compliance with the State and Federal standards for juvenile detention facilities. The state will notify The Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) if circumstances arise, or if resources are lost, which would jeopardize the state's capability to maintain compliance with the requirements of Section 223(a)(14).

The following West Virginia Case Law and statutes corroborate the JJDP Act.

West Virginia State Code § 49-5-16 prohibits the detention of juveniles in any institution where "he or she has contact with or comes within sight and sound of any adult persons incarcerated because they have been convicted of a crime or are awaiting trial on criminal charges or with the security staff (including management) or direct-care staff of a jail or locked facility for adults." It also prohibits detaining juveniles in state penitentiaries.

West Virginia State Code § 49-5A-2 makes it unlawful to incarcerate a child under 18 years of age in a common county jail or police station lockup.

The State assures that adjudicated juveniles are not reclassified administratively and transferred to adult correction authority. Sub section 49-5-16 paragraph (b) states the “No child who has been convicted of an offense under the adult jurisdiction of the circuit court shall be held in custody in a penitentiary of this State....the child may be transferred from a secure juvenile facility to a penitentiary after he attains the age of eighteen years if, in the judgment of the commissioner of the Department of Corrections and the court which committed such child, such transfer is appropriate.”

West Virginia Case Law R.C.F. v. Wilt (1979), states “we hold that it is unlawful for Circuit Courts and Juvenile Referees to incarcerate a child under eighteen years of age in a common county jail prior to an adjudication of delinquency. Those provisions clearly manifest a legislative judgment that children will not be rehabilitated by detention in county jails along with adult offenders, and that detention, when necessary, in other types of facilities maintained exclusively for juveniles is more consistent with the rehabilitative goals of our juvenile delinquency legislation.”

West Virginia Case Law Facilities Review Panel v. Coe (1992) states “The conditions outlined in West Virginia Code § 49-5-8(d) shall apply to all juveniles taken into custody, except that portion which refers to ‘the next judicial day’ shall instead be read as ‘the next day.’ Even when Circuit Judges and Juvenile Referees are not available, the rules and regulations for Magistrate courts require a Magistrate to make a telephone contact with the jails and juvenile secure detention facilities under their jurisdiction each and every day to ascertain if any adult or juvenile has been detained since the last contact period and immediately provide for a hearing for that individual.”

Plan to Address Disproportionate Minority Contact

Section 223(a)(22) DMC

Recognizing the importance of awareness and reduction of disproportionate minority contact (DMC), the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia sought and received a sub-grant to maintain a full-time DMC Coordinator in 2010. The Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) has completed its review and analysis and determined that West Virginia is in compliance with Section 223(a)(22) of the JJDP Act. During the past year, the Disproportionate Minority Contact Coordinator (DMC Coordinator) has accomplished or assisted in the following items:

- DMC Coordinator has attended the following intensive trainings:
 - September 2010 Charleston, West Virginia- Coordinated and participated in the DMC Statewide Assessment Training provided by the National Training and Technical Assistance Center (NTTAC).
 - October 2010 Jersey City, NJ-Attended a one-day DMC Training Day hosted by OJJDP.
 - October 2010 Jersey City, NJ-Attended the CJJ National DMC Conference & Council of SAGs' Meeting: "Fundamental Fairness: Eliminating Racial and Ethnic Disparities in Juvenile Justice".
 - March 2011 Elkview, West Virginia-Hosted an introductory training session entitled: Building Community Trust: Improving Cross-Cultural Communication in the Criminal Justice System (Curriculum courtesy of the American Bar Association (ABA).
 - April 2011 New Orleans, LA-Attended the 23rd Annual National Consortium for Racial Fairness in the Courts Conference entitled: Diversity and all that Jazz-A Multi-Edged Sword.

- DMC Coordinator serves as the co-chair of the DMC Workgroup along with Lee Leftwich of the West Virginia Juvenile Justice Subcommittee.

- DMC Coordinator has gathered, analyzed, and entered data in OJJDP's Web-Based system for 2009.
- DMC Coordinator completed an annual update plan in March 2010. This plan identified both short and long term goals for the State to address DMC and to increase compliance with the core mandate of the JJDP Act of 2002
- DMC Coordinator continued to work with the Juvenile Justice Database (JJDB) Committee on revising several data fields to improve reporting on race and ethnicity. The changes recommended by the JJDB Committee were implemented in October 2010. The changes will help probation officers collect additional data on race and ethnicity of juveniles entering the system
- DMC Coordinator, along with the DMC Workgroup, continues to identify and outline the necessary steps to undertake and begin a statewide assessment for the State of West Virginia. Progress in this area has been slow, however an extension to complete the statewide assessment has been granted by OJJDP. West Virginia and key leaders of the state and community must work diligently to complete a useful assessment aimed at effectively identifying contributing mechanisms to the over representation of minority youth in the juvenile justice system so that effective interventions and strategies can be developed to help minority youth and to create a fair and equal system of all.
- DMC Coordinator and the DMC Workgroup are working with West Virginia State Police to identify possible training opportunities and the possible implementation of the "Effective Police Interactions with Youth Curriculum (developed by the Connecticut Juvenile Justice Advisory Committee). This training has proven effective in other jurisdictions at reducing DMC at the arrest contact point in the JJ system and discussions continue about the best way to implement this training within the state.

- DMC Coordinator is working on identifying the process necessary to develop and implement a risk assessment to help reduce disparities at the detention contact points through researching information provided by the Juvenile Detention Alternatives Initiative (JDAI- Casey Foundation), Burns Institute, and the MacArthur Foundation.
- DMC Coordinator has begun to identify best practices applicable to West Virginia based on DMC Best Practices Database and OJJDP's Model Programs Guide.
- DMC Coordinator and DMC workgroup have developed a brochure highlighting DMC in West Virginia.
- DMC Coordinator and DMC Co-Chair, Lee Leftwich are working to establish a local DMC workgroup in Raleigh County, West Virginia in hopes of generating new ideas and increase grass roots efforts at addressing DMC on a local level.

Title II – Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Grant Program

The Juvenile Justice Subcommittee has chosen the following Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention funding categories to implement in West Virginia:

Community-Based Delinquency Prevention for At-Risk Children and Youth

Grant resources provided community based programs whose goals were to promote non-delinquent behavior and increase self-esteem, enhance interagency coordination and collaboration to meet the needs of the targeted at-risk youth population. A sample of the activities and services provided by various projects throughout West Virginia include: Activities that reduce peer pressure, school safety programs, direct services to victims of child sexual and physical abuse and projects that encourage parent involvement.

School Safety

The Prevention Resource Officer (PRO) Program is a cooperative effort between schools and law enforcement to: Improve student's attitudes and knowledge of criminal justice and law enforcement; to prevent kids from committing crimes; to mentor youth utilizing law enforcement officers; to provide a safer school environment and; to combine safety and child advocacy assuring a better school experience for all West Virginia youth.

The PRO Program has three main components prevention, mentoring, and safety.

- Prevention - the officers facilitate classes on non-traditional educational topics.
- Mentoring - officers are trained on how to be a positive mentor to students they interact with daily.
- Safety - officers are trained to recognize potential danger, prevent violence, and to respond to dangerous school situations.

Gender Specific Services

Grant resources provided funds to programs designed to address needs unique to the gender of the individual to whom such services are provided. Projects that were funded included programs that are structured to recognize gender-specific differences during developmental stages and the need for appropriate interventions which address these differences.

Disproportionate Minority Contact

Grant resources provided funds to programs, research or other initiatives primarily to address the disproportionate number of juvenile members of minority groups who come into contact with the juvenile justice system, pursuant to Section 223(a)(22) of the JJDP Act. Projects that were funded included programs that address juvenile delinquency prevention efforts designed to reduce, without establishing or requiring numerical standards or quotas, the disproportionate numbers of juvenile members of minority groups, who come in contact with the juvenile justice system.

A total of $679,655.00 in West Virginia Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (JJDP) Grant Funds was awarded to twenty-two (22) agencies statewide. Juvenile Accountability Block Grant Program

The Juvenile Justice Subcommittee has chosen the following Juvenile Accountability Block Grant funding categories to be implemented in West Virginia:

Accountability

Grant resources provided funding to help establish and maintain accountability-based programs designed to reduce recidivism among juveniles who are referred by law enforcement personnel or agencies. The goal of these programs is to build on the existing aftercare policy by increasing the intensity of the aftercare component as well as prepare youth for progressively increasing responsibility and freedom in the community.

Juvenile Prosecutors

Grant resources provided funding to hire additional juvenile prosecutors to help reduce the backlog of juvenile cases. The scarcity of juvenile prosecutors limits the ability to move offenders through the juvenile justice system. The addition of new prosecutors has greatly increased the amount of time and effort that can be allocated to juvenile cases to expedite the prosecution of juvenile offenders.

School Safety

The Prevention Resource Officer (PRO) Program is a cooperative effort between schools and law enforcement to: Improve student's attitudes and knowledge of criminal justice and law enforcement; to prevent kids from committing crimes; to mentor youth utilizing law enforcement officers; to provide a safer school environment and; to combine safety and child advocacy assuring a better school experience for all West Virginia youth.

The PRO Program has three main components prevention, mentoring, and safety.

- Prevention - the officers facilitate classes on non-traditional educational topics.
- Mentoring - officers are trained on how to be a positive mentor to students they interact with daily.

- Safety - officers are trained to recognize potential danger, prevent violence, and to respond to dangerous school situations.

Information Sharing

Grant resources provided funding to establish and maintain interagency information sharing programs that enable the juvenile justice systems, schools, and social services agencies to make more informed decisions regarding the early identification, control, supervision, and treatment of juveniles who repeatedly commit serious delinquent or criminal acts.

A total of $461,457.00 in West Virginia Juvenile Accountability Block Grant (JABG) funds has been awarded to eighteen (18) agencies statewide. These funds will be used to address the growing problem of juvenile crime by promoting greater accountability in the juvenile justice system. The recent awards are focused in the areas of accountability-based sanction programs for juvenile offenders; specialized juvenile prosecution, court and probation programs; and school safety programs.
