This Debt Capacity Report is one tool to monitor the fiscal prudence in managing the proceeds along with the state's economy. Pursuant to West Virginia Code §12-6A-6(e), the West Virginia State Treasurer is required to annually submit this Debt Capacity Report to the Governor, the President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Delegates, the members of the Joint Committee on Government and Finance, the Legislative Auditor, as well as upon request to any other legislative committee and any other member of the Legislature. Additionally, the Debt Capacity Report is posted on the West Virginia State Treasurer's Office website located at <https://www.wvsto.com/> for inspection by any citizen of the state. West Virginia Code requires this Debt Capacity Report to examine the following:

- the amount of net tax-supported debt outstanding and debt authorized but not issued during the current and next fiscal year and annually for the following ten (10) fiscal years;
- debt service requirements during the current and next fiscal year as well as annually for the following ten (10) fiscal years based upon existing outstanding debt, previously authorized but unissued debt and projected bond authorizations;

- any information available from the Budget Office of the Department of Revenue in connection with projected revenues and anticipated capital expenditures projected for at least the next five fiscal years;
- the amount of debt the state and its spending units may prudently issue;
- what is needed to keep West Virginia within an average-to-low range of nationally recognized debt limits;
- the debt ratios rating agencies and analysts use; and
- the effect of authorizations of new tax-supported debt on each of the considerations in this subsection.

Net tax-supported debt outstanding – To assist in analyzing the amount of the state’s debt capacity, Table 1 - West Virginia Net Tax-Supported Debt Outstanding as of June 30, 2021 is included on page 3. Table 1 shows the breakdown of the state’s $2.81 billion in outstanding net tax-supported debt as of June 30, 2021. Net tax-supported debt outstanding includes:

- general obligation (GO) bonds;
- lottery revenue bonds; and
- lease and note payable obligations.

DISCLAIMER

Pursuant to W.Va. Code §12-6A-6, every state spending unit is required to report quarterly on its debt to the West Virginia State Treasurer’s Office. The Treasurer’s Office prepares this Report using information provided by the spending units and information from other sources considered reliable. This report is unaudited and may be amended when updated information is provided to the Treasurer’s Office.

The debt service for the $2.81 billion in net tax-supported debt represents 5.46% of the state’s General Revenue Fund receipts and 4.29% of specified revenue sources for Fiscal Year 2021. This debt service includes both principal and interest payments. The specified revenue sources include the State Road Fund, lottery funds and certain dedicated severance taxes (see Appendix B - Revenue Information for more information on the revenues included in this calculation). Both ratios are below the recommended caps.

Another important factor when determining debt capacity and the health of the state’s debt is amortization, or how rapidly the state’s debt is maturing. With all scenarios remaining constant, a 3.94% increase in net tax-supported debt outstanding could occur within the next year. The recommended caps noted in the chart below are for the following year for various debt ratios:

Table 2 - Recommended Ratio Caps as of June 30, 2021

Ratio	Recommended Cap	June 30, 2021 Level	Projected Highest Level (FY22-32)
Net tax-supported debt Service as a percentage of the General Revenue Fund	6.00%	5.46%	5.48% (June 30, 2023)
Net tax-supported debt Service as a percentage of revenues	5.00%	4.29%	4.47% (June 30, 2023)
Net tax-supported debt as a percentage of personal income	3.00%	3.31%	3.20% (June 30, 2022)
Net tax-supported debt per capita	$980	$1,567	$1,505 (June 30, 2022)
Net tax-supported debt as a percentage of assessed valuation	2.0%	2.68%	2.52% (June 30, 2022)

Conclusion

The most important indicators of debt capacity include ratios, which account for the state’s revenues, and how much of those revenues are dedicated for payments on the state’s debt burden. With the issuance of $800 million in GO debt in fiscal year 2018, $600 million issued in December 2019, and $214 million in fiscal year 2021 for the Roads to Prosperity initiative, state leaders must carefully monitor the state’s ratios and be ready to take action, if necessary, to keep the state within the recommended caps of debt capacity.

Debt Capacity

The purpose of this report is to perform the following tasks:

1. determine the amount of net tax-supported debt outstanding;
2. calculate key ratios that are commonly used to examine debt; and
3. make recommendations which will attempt to keep the state within an average-to-low range of national recognized debt limits.

1. Determine the amount of net tax-supported debt outstanding

The calculation of net tax-supported debt is shown in Table 1 - West Virginia Net Tax-Supported Debt Outstanding as of June 30, 2021, page 3. This $2.81 billion figure includes general obligation (GO) bonds, lottery revenue bonds as well as lease and notes payable obligations of state spending units, including state colleges and universities.

The highest quality bonds the state can issue are GO bonds because GO bonds pledge the full faith and credit of the state and are authorized only by a constitutional amendment. Currently, GO bonds constitute the largest portion of the state’s net tax-supported debt outstanding at approximately 61% (see chart titled West Virginia Net Tax-Supported Debt by Type as of June 30, 2021 below).

West Virginia Net Tax-Supported Debt by Type as of June 30, 2021

The second largest type of debt consists of bonds backed by various pledges of revenue generated from the West Virginia Lottery. Revenues from the West Virginia Lottery are anticipated to decrease approximately $143 million for fiscal year 2021 to 2022. Projections show the revenue increases $19 million for fiscal year 2022 to 2023, then revenues should remain consistent between fiscal years 2023 to 2032. See Appendix B - Revenue Information for revenue projections.

Several state spending units have outstanding revenue bonds on June 30, 2021 (see Table 3 – Various Revenue Bonds Outstanding, page 6). These revenue bonds are excluded from the calculation of net tax-supported debt because these bonds are self-supporting revenue bonds. For example, the bonds issued by the Tobacco Settlement Financing Authority of West Virginia are excluded because the debt service is paid from tobacco settlement funds.

Although certain bonds of the West Virginia Water Development Authority and the West Virginia Housing Development Fund are considered moral obligations of the state, these bonds are currently self-supporting and are excluded from the calculation of net tax-supported debt.

Calculations of the net tax-supported debt and debt service of the State of West Virginia for fiscal years 2016 through 2032 are contained in Table 4 and Table 5 (Table 4 – Net Tax-Supported Debt Outstanding for Fiscal Years 2016-2032 and Table 5 - Net Tax-Supported Debt Services for Fiscal Years 2016-2032, pages 8-11). Fiscal years 2016 through 2021 are included to show the historical perspective of the actual debt issued and the debt service requirements for those obligations. The most recent and next ten (10) fiscal years, 2022 through 2032, are included to show expected debt levels as existing obligations mature.

Revenue information included in Table 4 and Table 5 (Table 4 – Net Tax-Supported Debt Outstanding for Fiscal Years 2016-2032 and Table 5 - Net Tax-Supported Debt Services for Fiscal Years 2016-2032, pages 8-11) was compiled and provided by the West Virginia Department of Revenue and is included in Appendix B - Revenue Information. The projected values of personal income were obtained from IHS Markit (“WV Annual Long-Term Forecast” November 2021).

Lottery Revenue Bonds – Revenue bonds backed by certain funds of the West Virginia Lottery have been issued for various reasons, such as economic development grants and “brick & mortar” projects at various primary and secondary schools as well as colleges and universities throughout West Virginia. Lottery revenue bonds account for approximately 28% of the state’s net tax-supported debt outstanding. The following table shows the debt service burden lottery revenue bonds place on lottery funds. Lottery Fund numbers are provided by the Department of Revenue and are net of transfers to the state’s General Revenue Fund.

¹ The total amount of leases outstanding in this report is $323.3 million and will differ from the figure reported in the state's Annual Comprehensive Financial Report. This is due to several factors, including the materiality levels used.

2. Calculate key ratios that are commonly used to examine debt

Key ratios establish benchmarks the municipal bond industry and other entities use to provide a measurement of a state's outstanding debt and the servicing (principal and interest payments) of that debt. Ratios are useful tools because they provide quantifiable measurements used when analyzing a state's fiscal position. Ratios can also provide insight into economic trends and a state's reliance on debt financing.

According to calculations based on net tax-supported debt, revenue projections, personal income projections and population estimates, the ratios as of June 30, 2021, are shown below:

Various Debt Ratios as of June 30, 2021

State of West Virginia Credit Ratings:

The ratings for the State remain as follows from the June 2021 General Obligation 2021 AB Bond issuance.

Moody's: Aa2; Standard and Poor's: AA-; and Fitch: AA

With the 2018 issuance of $800 million, the 2019 issuance of $600 million, and the 2021 issuance of $214 million in GO debt, the ratios reached their peak in fiscal year 2023 for the first two charts and fiscal year 2021 for the second two charts below. In the years following, there is a decrease as the debt service payments are made. This does not account for increases in revenue bond debt and assumes lease obligations outstanding for fiscal years 2022 to 2032 remaining constant. The following charts show the historical and future projections of these ratios.

3. Make recommendations which will attempt to keep the state within an average to low range of nationally recognized debt limits.

The final step in this analysis is making recommendations based on keeping the state within a certain range of debt ratios. Most ratios are easily accessible; therefore, making comparisons to other states and making recommendations of keeping the state in the average to low range is relatively easy. There are also certain industry practices recognized as prudent fiscal management. For example, many states have constitutional or statutory caps on how much of their General Fund can be obligated toward debt repayment; other states use a combination of ratios with various parameters.

Each year, Moody’s Investors Service produces a report ranking states according to various debt ratios. The 2021 report, titled State Government – US – Medians – State Debt Rose 2.5% in 2020, spurred by pandemic-linked borrowing, shows the average (or “mean”), the high and the low for two of the ratios examined in this report. This comparison is made to West Virginia ratios to carry out the legislative intent of this report, which is to make recommendations with the aim of keeping the state in the “average to low range of national recognized debt limits.” The average debt per capita of the 50 states for 2021 was $1,535. The average debt as a percentage of personal income was 2.5%.

Net Tax-Supported Debt Service as a Percentage of the General Revenue Fund

The net tax-supported debt service as a percentage of the General Revenue Fund is perhaps the most important ratio measurement since it shows the potential strain on the General Revenue Fund if, for some reason, all other funds are insufficient to pay debt service.

Keeping the potential debt service burden on the state’s General Revenue Fund below 6.00% is prudent fiscal management.

Net Tax-Supported Debt Service as a Percentage of Revenues

The definition of revenues includes not only the General Revenue Fund, but also the state’s Road Fund, Lottery Fund, and the dedicated stream of the state’s coal severance tax collections. The annual dedication of collections for the Infrastructure General Obligation bonds is based on an amortization schedule published by the West Virginia State Treasurer’s Office, not to exceed $22.25 million per year. The current and projected revenues are contained in Table 5 - Net Tax-Supported Debt Services for Fiscal Years 2022-2032, pages 10 and 11, and in Appendix B - Revenue Information.

The recommended level for this year’s report remains at 5.00%. As mentioned in previous reports, the amount of bonds backed by a pledge of lottery revenue remains at a high level. The Legislature has approved statutory rules addressing adequate debt service coverage ratio limits on the Excess Lottery Fund and provided a cross-collateral mechanism for Lottery Revenue Bonds.

The debt service on existing Lottery Revenue Bonds will peak at $97 million during fiscal year 2024. The debt service is $88 million for fiscal year 2021. After 2024, the debt service decreases.

Net Tax-Supported Debt as a Percentage of Personal Income

This ratio has historically plagued the State of West Virginia because the measurement of personal income of West Virginia residents has been below the national average. According to figures supplied from the West Virginia State Budget Office, with further reference to an IHS Markit report, West Virginia's personal income is forecasted to decrease approximately 0.40% from 2021 to 2022, and increase 4.68% from 2022 to 2023, and increase 4.57% from 2023 to 2024.

According to a Moody's Investors Service report, the average of this particular ratio is 2.5%, with the median being 1.9%. Comparing states that have a similar Moody's rating to that of West Virginia (Aa2), West Virginia was the sixth highest within the average range of this particular ratio as detailed in Table 11 Debt as a Percentage of Personal Income (similarly rated states) as Presented in a 2021 report by Moody's Investors Service on page 24.

Historically, this report has recommended a cap of 3.00% for this particular ratio. It is recommended the cap for this year remain at 3.00%. Until the State of West Virginia can realize a greater increase in its personal income, careful attention should be paid to this important economic indicator.

Net Tax-Supported Debt Per Capita

West Virginia's net tax-supported debt per capita as calculated by the West Virginia State Treasurer's Office is $1,567. This figure is similar to the national average of $1,535 listed in the Moody's Investors Service report.

Population figures are good economic measurements in this analysis. For example, the ratio of net tax-supported debt per capita indicates the possible debt burden on each West Virginia citizen based on a population analysis. According to estimates from the United States Census Bureau, West Virginia's population in 2020 was 1,793,716, a slight increase over 2019. The very slight increase and previous years' trending downward population is not a positive indicator for the State of West Virginia because the potential debt burden increases on the remaining population. It is also important to note West Virginia has one of the oldest populations in the United States.

The state's population may see growth as more jobs are anticipated with an influx of investment in infrastructure development. However, until this shift in declining population is realized, the recommended cap of net tax-supported debt per capita should be $980 as of June 30, 2021. This recommendation is below the national average of $1,535. According to Moody's, the net tax-supported debt per capita for West Virginia was $1,617, the fifth highest ratio among other states with a Moody's rating of Aa2. This figure is different than the figure calculated by the West Virginia State Treasurer's Office (see note on page 26).

Other Debt Ratios

Net tax-supported debt as a Percentage of the Assessed Value of Taxable Property - Historically, the Debt Capacity Report has suggested a cap of 2.00% for this particular ratio. This recommendation has not been based on any particular research, but rather on the relationship to the other current debt ratios of the state. On June 30, 2021, the ratio was 2.68%.

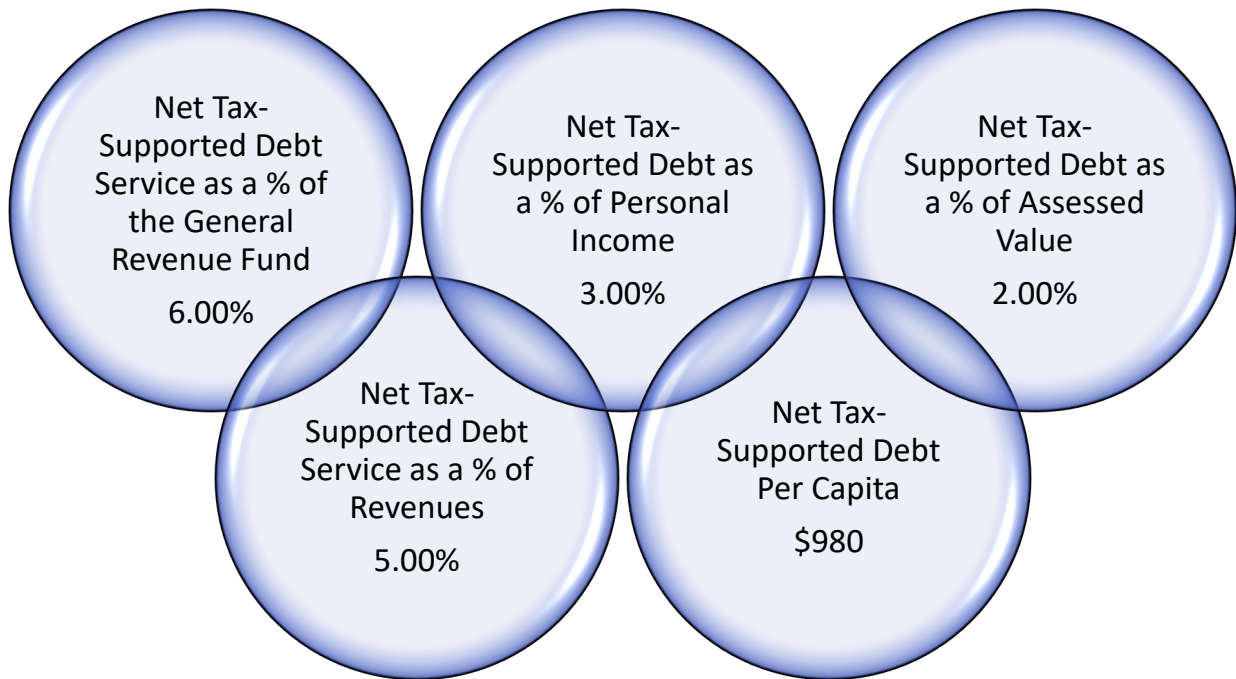

Summary

The goal of this report is to continue the State of West Virginia's practice of fiscal conservatism by making recommendations to help the state maintain a "moderate-to-low" debt burden. This burden does not consider the state's "soft" debts, such as pension liabilities or other post-employment benefits, but it does consider those debt issuances the state's citizens and its lawmakers have authorized.

The State of West Virginia is below two of the five recommended caps on the ratios examined in this report. As previously discussed, the state has issued $1.6 billion in new GO bonds as of June 2021. This investment in the state's future must be carefully monitored to ensure it pays the expected dividends of long-term income and population growth for the State of West Virginia and its citizens. Maintaining a fiscally conservative approach will guide the State of West Virginia on the road to prosperity.
