best of his skill and judgment, and that he will neither directly or indirectly receive nor agree to receive any gift or reward, from the owner of any land in his assessment district or other person, to influence his action in the making of such assessment, and that he will assess all the real estate in his district without bias, fear or favor. The said bond and oath shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county court, and the bond be duly recorded, by said clerk, who shall certify a copy thereof within ten days thereafter to the auditor, and also furnish the auditor the postoffice address of the commissioners. If the said commissioner so appointed shall fail to qualify and give bond as herein required, within the time prescribed, or in case he shall die or resign, before making or completing his re-valuation, or the office otherwise become vacant, a successor shall be immediately appointed by the board of public works, who shall at once give bond and qualify as herein prescribed, and enter upon the duties of the office.

1. That section fifteen of chapter thirty-nine of the Code of West Virginia be amended and re-enacted, so as to read as follows:

15. Whenever the citizens of any county desire the relocation of their county seat they may file their petition, or petitions, for such relocation at a place, or places, to be named therein, at any regular session of the county court of such county. None but legal voters of the county shall sign said petition, or petitions, and an affidavit shall be appended thereto that the petitioners are, as the affiant verily believes, legal voters of the said county. Upon the filing of the said petition, or petitions, each place at which a relocation is sought, being petitioned for by two-fifths of all the legal voters of the said county, to be estimated by allowing one vote for every six persons in such county, as shown by the last preceding census, said court shall, at the same term at which said petition, or petitions are filed, make an order that a vote be taken at the next general election to be held in the said county, upon the question of such relocation, at the place, or places, named in said petition, or petitions, each having the signatures of two-fifths of the legal voters of the said county as aforesaid. And if such petition, or petitions, be filed in any year in which no general election is to be held, the said county court shall, at the same session thereof at which such petition, or petitions are filed, fix a day for and order the holding of a special election upon the question of such relocation; which special election shall be held in the said county not less than sixty days nor more than four months from the date of said order: Provided, The petitioners signing each of said petitions, if there be more than one petition, or some one for them, shall, at the same term of said court, enter into and acknowledge a bond, with good security, to be approved by said court, in the penalty of five thousand dollars, conditioned to pay all the legal costs of holding said election; and if such bond be not given no special election shall be held.

Special election, when ordered.

Bond to pay costs of election.

If bond be not given.

The clerk of said court shall, upon the adjournment of said court, make out and certify as many copies of said order as there are voting places in said county, and deliver the same to the sheriff thereof, whose duty it shall be to post one of said copies, or cause it to be done, at each of said places of voting in said county, at least forty days before the day of such election; and if a newspaper is printed in said county, the court shall in addition to the above notice, cause a copy of said order to be published therein, at least once in each week, for four consecutive weeks prior to such election. If three-fifths of all the votes cast at said election upon the question, be in favor of the relocation at either of the places voted for, the said county court shall enter an order declaring the place so receiving three-fifths of all the votes cast therefor, to be the county seat of said county from and after that date. But no county seat shall hereafter be relocated or removed to any place within a distance of five miles from the state line of this state, unless at an election held for such relocation pursuant to this section, three-fourths of all the votes cast upon the question of such relocation, be in favor of such relocation at the point so within five miles of the state line of this state. And the said court shall, as soon thereafter as practicable, cause all the records, papers and office property pertaining to the offices of the clerks of the county and circuit courts to be removed to the said new county seat. The said vote shall be taken, superintended, conducted and returned in the same manner and by the same officers as elections for county and state officers. If said election be held at a general election, the commissioners of election shall make out and sign a separate certificate of the result of said vote, and deliver the same to the clerk of the county court within the same time they are required by law to deliver the certificates of the result of the election for officers held by them. And if said election be held at a special election, then said county court shall at the session at which the election is ordered, appoint three commissioners of that election for each voting place in said county, who shall ascertain and certify the result of such election in the same manner as herein provided to be done at a general election. And the certificates of the result of such special election shall be laid before the court by the clerk thereof, at a special session thereof, which shall be held within five days (Sundays excepted) after said special election. If two petitions, for such relocation at different places, be presented to the county court at the same session, each signed by two fifths of the legal voters of the said county, ascertained in the manner hereinbefore provided for, the court by a proper order entered of record, at the same term at which said petition or petitions are filed, shall direct that a vote be taken between all the places mentioned in the said petitions; but such county seat shall not be removed unless some one of the places voted for at said election shall have received three fifths of all the votes cast upon the question of such relocation, In case the same person signs more than one petition for such relocation, such person shall not be considered by the court as petitioning for a relocation of the county seat.
- In case of such relocation, the county court of said county shall proceed with all possible dispatch to cause the necessary buildings for the use of the county to be erected thereat; and until that is done the courts of the said county may in case of necessity be held at the former county seat. 5. The jury, after hearing the evidence and making all needful inquiries, shall deliver to the coroner or justice their inquisition, wherein they shall state the name of the deceased (if it be known), the material circumstances attending his death, and if they find that he came to his death by violence or other unlawful act, who were guilty thereof, either as principals or as accessories. In testimony whereof, the said justice (or coroner, as the case may be), and jurors hereto set their hands.”

8. If the dead person be a stranger, whether the inquest be taken, or the coronor or justice called on to view the body, thinks it unnecessary to have an inquest, he shall cause the body to be decently buried, or forwarded to its proper destination. If the coroner or justice certify the deceased has not sufficient estate in this state to pay the expenses of the burial, the coroner's and justice's fees, and the expenses of the inquest, if one was taken, they shall, when allowed by the county court of the county, be paid out of the treasury of such county. In other cases, all such charges shall be paid out of the estate of the deceased; or if it prove insufficient, out of the treasury of the county, unless the inquest be on the body of a convict in the penitentiary, in which case the same shall be paid out of the state treasury, after being allowed by the executive. Each juror impaneled as herein provided, shall receive for his services two dollars for each day he shall be necessarily engaged in holding the inquest and making return thereof, and the justice or coroner and constable shall each receive for his services two dollars per day, to be allowed and paid as aforesaid. Should the coroner or justice, upon such notice, make a preliminary examination of the facts connected with such death, and ascertain that there was not good cause to believe that it was by some unlawful act, he shall not hold such inquest except by request of the prosecuting attorney; and said coroner or justice, in case no inquest is held, may at the discretion of the county court, upon a claim therefor, approved by the prosecuting attorney, be allowed a fee of two dollars for such examination.

That sections one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, seventeen, eighteen, nineteen, twenty and twenty-one, of chapter one hundred and sixteen of the code of West Virginia, be amended and re-enacted so as to read as follows:

Who Liable to Serve and Who Exempt as Jurors.

Jurors, who to serve as.

1. All male persons who are twenty-one years of age, and not over sixty, and who are citizens of this state, shall be liable to serve as jurors, except as hereinafter provided.

2. The governor of the state, practicing attorneys and physicians, druggists, postmasters, officers of any court, all telegraph operators actually engaged as such in any office in this state, and all persons mentioned in the second and fourth sections of chapter nineteen of this code as exempted from military duty (except school commissioners, persons exempted under the second section of chapter nineteen of this code by reason of having relatives dependent upon them for support, or in the military service of the United States, or of this state, officers of the militia who resign their commissions after serving seven years successively, and officers and members of a uniformed and armed volunteer company, who shall have served three years) shall be exempt from serving on juries.

3. There shall be two jury commissioners of the circuit court for each county. They shall be of opposite politics, citizens of good standing, resident in the county for which they are appointed, and well known members of the principal political parties thereof. They shall be appointed by the circuit court, or the judge thereof in vacation, of their respective counties. Their term of office shall be four years, and shall commence on the first day of June next after their appointment, but the first two shall be appointed, one for two years and the other for four years, and thereafter, alternately, for the full term of four years. They may be removed from office by the court or judge having the power of appointment, for official misconduct, incompetency, habitual drunkenness, neglect of duty or gross immorality. Vacancies caused by death, resignation or otherwise, shall be filled for the unexpired term in the same manner as original appointments. The jury commissioners shall keep in a well bound book, a record of the proceedings to be preserved by the clerk of the circuit court in his office. They shall receive two dollars per day, for each day necessarily employed as such jury commissioners, payable out of the county treasury, upon the order of the circuit court. The first appointment of said commissioners shall be made within thirty days after this act takes effect. The jury commissioners of each county shall, at the levy term of the county court thereof, annually, and at any other time when required by the circuit court of such county, without reference to party affiliations, prepare a list of such inhabitants of the county, not exempted as aforesaid, as they shall think well qualified to serve as jurors, being persons of sound judgment and free from legal exception, which list shall include at least twenty persons for every thousand inhabitants in such county, but in no case

But the name of no person shall be put on such list, who may have requested the jury commissioners, or either of them, by himself or another person, to have his name placed on such list. Before entering upon the discharge of their duties, the jury commissioners shall take and subscribe an oath to the following effect:

Form of oath. I, A — B —, do solemnly swear that I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of this state, and will faithfully discharge the duties of jury commissioner to the best of my skill and judgment, and that I will not place any person upon the jury list out of fear, favor or affection.”

Who to administer. The said oath shall be taken before the clerk of the circuit court, who is hereby authorized to administer the same and filed and preserved by him in his office. There shall also be two jury commissioners for every court of limited jurisdiction, who shall be appointed by said courts, or the judges thereof in vacation respectively; and whose terms of office and compensation shall be the same as the jury commissioners for the circuit courts. The same powers conferred and duties imposed by this chapter upon the circuit courts, or the judges thereof in vacation, and upon the clerks and jury commissioners of the circuit courts, are hereby conferred and imposed upon every court of limited jurisdiction and the judges thereof respectively, and upon the clerks and jury commissioners of said courts of limited jurisdiction.

Who may be stricken from list.

Slips with names to be deposited in box. 5. At the time such list is made out, the jury commissioners shall also cause all the names upon the same to be fairly written, each on a separate paper or ballot, and shall fold or roll up the ballots so as to resemble each other as nearly as may be, and so that the name written thereon shall not be visible on the outside, and shall deposit the ballots in a secure box, to be prepared for the purpose, which shall be safely kept by the clerk of the circuit court, and shall be opened only by the order of the jury commissioners, or as hereinafter prescribed.

6. All jurors required for the trial of cases in any circuit court, including cases of felony, shall be selected by drawing ballots from the said box in the manner prescribed in this chapter, and the persons whose names are written on the ballots so drawn shall be returned to serve as jurors.

Drawing of jurors.

7. The circuit court of any county, by order entered of record, or the judge of any such court in vacation, by written order to the clerk of such court, at least twenty days before the term, may dispense with a jury for one of the regular terms, and in such case no venire facias shall be issued, and no jury summoned for such time until it is ordered by the circuit court or the judge thereof in vacation. The clerk of every circuit court shall, at least thirty days before any time of such court at which a jury may be wanted, issue a venire facias for thirty jurors, unless the court shall order a greater or less number, in which event the writ shall issue for such other number. Such writ shall require the attendance of the jurors on the first day of the court, or on such other day thereof as the court or judge may order. If, in the opinion of any court, a lesser number of jurors than thirty will usually suffice for the convenient dispatch of the business thereof, it shall be the duty of such court to enter such opinion of record, expressing therein the number of jurors proper to be summoned; and thereafter, until otherwise directed, the venire facias shall not require a greater number to be summoned to attend such court.

The writ of venire facias and summons shall be delivered to the sheriff or other officer, who shall serve the summons on the jury commissioners; and it shall be the duty of the jury commissioners to attend on the day designated in the summons, at the clerk's office of the circuit court of the county, and, in the presence of the clerk of the circuit court, to draw the proper number of jurors from

10. If either, or both, of the jury commissioners fail to attend as required by said summons, the clerk of the circuit court shall appoint special jury commissioners having the qualifications herein required, to act in their room, place and stead, for the time being, and such jurors shall be drawn by said special jury commissioners; and it shall be the duty of the clerk of the circuit court to place the list thereof in the hands of the sheriff or other officer. And it shall be the duty of such officer, at least three days before the time when the jurors are required to attend, to summons each person who is drawn, to attend the sitting of the court at the time and place mentioned in the writ, and make due return thereof, and of the summons aforesaid, to such court, at the opening thereof.

12. When any person drawn and returned to serve as aforesaid, the jury commissioners shall cause to be endorsed on the ballot containing his name, the word "drawn," and shall cause it to be placed in another box to be kept for the purpose in the custody of the clerk of the circuit court, and only opened as hereinafter prescribed; and the date of the draft shall be entered on the list of jurors opposite the name of the person so drawn.

When box is exhausted, ballots to be replaced.

13. When all the ballots in the jury box have been destroyed or placed in the box for the ballots marked "drawn," except such as contain the names of those who, for the reasons aforesaid, are unable to attend, the last mentioned box shall be opened in the presence of the officers attending to draw jurors, and the ballots therein replaced in the jury-box, from which drafts shall thereafter again be made in the manner herein prescribed.

14. Nothing contained in the preceding sections shall prevent any court, in term time, from requiring other jurors to be drawn by the clerk, in the presence of the court, and to be summoned whenever it shall be found necessary for the convenient dispatch of business. But in such case, the list prepared by the jury commissioners under section three of this chapter, shall be exhausted before another list is made. The jurors so summoned shall be required to attend on such days as the court shall direct.

Qualifications and Disqualifications of Jurors.—When Excepted To.

17. Either party in any action or suit may, and the court shall, on motion of such party, examine on oath any person who is called as a juror therein, to know whether he is a qualified juror, or is related to either party, or has any interest in the cause, or is sensible of any bias or prejudice therein; and the party objecting to the juror may introduce any other competent evidence in support of the objection; and if it shall appear to the court that such person is not a qualified juror or does not stand indifferent in the cause, another shall be called and placed in his stead for the trial of that cause. And in every case, the plaintiff and defendant may each challenge four jurors peremptorily. In any suit or proceeding in which a county, district, school district, or municipal corporation, is interested, or is a party, no person shall be incompetent as a juror because he is an inhabitant or taxpayer of such county, district, school district or municipal corporation; Provided, however, That in any case where a municipal corporation is interested, or is a party, the court, upon motion of either party to the suit, made either on the first day of the term of the court, or at any other time not less than five days before the day set for the trial, may order jurors to be drawn in the manner hereinbefore provided, and summoned, none of whom are citizens or taxpayers of such municipal corporation; and if it be under circumstances requiring the issuing of a venire facias, the jury

The jurors so summoned shall be required to attend on such days as the court may direct. Any court of limited jurisdiction heretofore established, or hereafter established, within any incorporated city, town or village, shall have power, in any such suit or proceeding, to require the summoning and attendance of jurors from the county who are not citizens of the municipal corporation. No irregularity in any writ of venire facias, or in the drawing, summoning, or impaneling of jurors, shall be sufficient to set aside a verdict, unless the party making the objection was injured by the irregularity, or unless the objection was made before the swearing of the jury.

Officers Fined for Neglect of Duty.

Neglect of officers, penalty. 20. When by neglect of any of the duties required in this chapter to be performed by any of the officers or persons herein mentioned, the jurors to be returned shall not be duly drawn and summoned to attend the court, any person guilty of such neglect shall pay a fine not exceeding twenty dollars, to be imposed by the court.

Special Juries.

Special juries; may be drawn when, how. 21. Any court may allow a special jury in any civil case, upon motion of all the parties thereto, to be formed in the following manner, viz: The court shall direct a panel of twenty jurors to be drawn by the clerk, in presence of the court, from the box mentioned in section five of this chapter, who shall be summoned by the sheriff to attend on the day named in the order, and from which number sixteen shall be chosen by lot; and the parties thereupon, beginning with the plaintiffs' attorney, shall alternately strike off one, until the number be reduced to twelve; which number shall complete the jury for the trial of the case. The court may also allow a special jury in any civil case when the panel of drawn jurors is exhausted, upon the motion of either of the parties, to be summoned by the sheriff so far as may be required from the body of the county; but no such special jury shall be allowed in any case unless the court certifies of record that the interests of the parties so asking such jury, will be promoted by the allowance of such special jury.

AN ACT to amend and re-enact chapter twenty-seven of the acts of one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, entitled "An act prescribing regulations for the transportation of petroleum or other oils or liquids by railroad companies or transportation companies or through pipes of iron or other material constructed for that purpose."

[Passed February 24, 1891.]

Be it enacted by the Legislature of West Virginia:

1. Every person, corporation or company now engaged or who shall hereafter engage or continue in the business of transporting or storing petroleum, by means of pipe line or lines or storage by tanks, shall be subject to the provisions of this act and shall conduct such business in conformity herewith; and the word company whenever used in this act shall be construed to include persons and corporations.

2. Any company heretofore or hereafter organized for the purpose of transporting petroleum or other oils or liquids, by means of pipe line or lines, shall be required to accept all petroleum offered to it in merchantable order in quantities of not less than two thousand gallons at the wells where the same is produced, making at its own expense all necessary connections with the tanks or receptacles containing such petroleum, and to transport and deliver the same at any delivery station, within or without the state, on the route of its line of pipes which may be designated by the owners of the petroleum so offered.

3. All petroleum of a gravity of thirty-five degrees Baume or under, at a temperature of sixty degrees Fahrenheit, offered for transportation by means of pipe line or lines, shall, before the same is transported, as provided by section two of this act, be inspected, graded and measured at the expense of the pipe line company, and the company accepting the same for transportation shall give to the owner thereof a receipt stating therein the number of barrels or gallons so received, and the grade, gravity and measurement thereof, and within a reasonable time thereafter, upon demand of said owner or his assigns, shall deliver to him at the point of delivery a like quantity and grade or gravity of petroleum in merchantable condition as specified in said receipt; except that the company may deduct for waste one per centum of the amount of petroleum specified in such receipt.

4. The charge for receiving, transporting and delivering petroleum of the gravity of thirty-five degrees Baume or under, at a temperature of sixty degrees Fahrenheit, by means of pipe line or lines shall not exceed one cent per barrel of forty two gallons, per mile; Provided, that if said rate should amount for the whole distance transported to less than ten cents per barrel, then the sum of ten cents per barrel may be charged; and, provided that if the distance be over twenty miles and not more than thirty miles, one half cent per barrel may be charged for every mile over twenty miles; and provided, further, that if the distance be over thirty miles, the maximum charge shall not exceed twenty-five cents.

6. All petroleum of a gravity exceeding thirty five degrees Baume at a temperature of sixty degrees Fahrenheit, offered for transportation by means of pipe line or lines, shall be inspected and measured at the expense of the company transporting the same, before the same is transported; and the company accepting the same for transportation, shall give to the owner thereof, or to the person in charge of the well or wells from which such petroleum has been produced and run, a ticket signed by its gauger, stating the number of feet and inches of petroleum which were in the tank or receptacle containing the same before the company began to run the contents from said tank, and the number of feet and inches of petroleum which remained in the tank after said run was completed; and all deductions made for water, sediment or the like, shall be made at the time such petroleum is measured; and within reasonable time thereafter said company shall, upon demand, deliver from the petroleum in its custody to the owner thereof, or to his assignee, at such delivery station on the route of its line of pipes as he may elect, a quantity of merchantable petroleum, equal to the quantity of petroleum run from said tank or receptacle, which shall be ascertained by computation; except that the said company transporting said petroleum may deduct for evaporation and waste two per centum of the amount of petroleum so run, as shown by said run ticket; and except that in case of loss of any petroleum while in the custody of said company caused by fire, lightning, storm or other like unavoidable cause, such loss shall be borne pro rata by all the owners of such petroleum at the time thereof. But said company shall be liable for all petroleum that is lost while in its custody by the bursting of pipes or tanks, or by leakage from pipes or tanks; and it shall also be liable for all petroleum lost from tanks at the wells where produced before the same has been received for transportation, if such loss be due to faulty connections made to said tanks; and said company shall be liable for all petroleum lost by the overflow of any tanks with which pipe line connections have been made, if such overflow be due to the negligence of such company; and for all the pe-roleum lost by the overflow of any tanks with which pipe line connections should have been made under the provisions of this act, but were not so made by reason of negligence or delay on the part of said company.

7. Any company engaged in transporting petroleum of a gravity exceeding thirty-five degrees Baume at a temperature of sixty degrees Fahrenheit, by means of pipe line or lines, may charge for receiving, transporting and delivering such petroleum not to exceed twenty cents per barrel for each barrel of forty-two gallons; Provided, however, if where the point of delivery is without this state, more than twenty cents per barrel be charged, then there shall be charged no greater sum than ten cents per barrel for receiving such oil and transporting the same that part of the distance which is within this state.

8. Any company engaged in transporting or storing petroleum of a gravity exceeding thirty-five degrees Baume at a temperature of sixty degrees Fahrenheit, by means of pipe line or lines and tanks, shall make no charge for storing said petroleum until after the expiration of the month following that in which the oil was run and received into custody. But it may charge for storing said petroleum of a gravity exceeding thirty-five degrees Baume at a temperature of sixty degrees Fahrenheit, for every day after the expiration of the month following that in which said oil shall have been run and received into custody, not to exceed one-fortieth of one cent per barrel of forty-two gallons for each day thereafter said oil shall continue to remain in its custody. 9. No company engaged in transporting or storing petroleum by means of pipe line or lines and tanks, shall charge, demand or receive from any corporation, company, association, person or persons a greater or less rate for the transportation or storage of petroleum than it charges, receives or demands from any other corporation, company, association, person or persons for the transportation or storage of petroleum of like gravity; and any shift, device, or subterfuge made or attempted for the purpose of avoiding the provisions of this section shall be void.

The said corporation shall, after erecting its boom, have the exclusive privilege of maintaining a suitable boom or booms, with or without piers, dam or dams, across the stream designated within two miles above its boom, so erected for the purpose of stopping and securing boats, rafts, saw-logs and other timber of value; but such boom or booms shall be so constructed as to permit boats, rafts and other timber, when desired by the owners, to pass them without unavoidable delay and without paying toll, boomage or other charges, and may erect their booms on the rivers and other streams, and may dredge and clear the channels thereof, and remove obstructions therefrom, and may build saw-mills on lands acquired in any other way than by condemnation; and manufacture and sell lumber and construct tram-railways and dams, and do such other work as may be necessary for the purpose of getting logs and lumber to, down and from the river and its branches, on which said boom is located; and in the event the lands necessary for such tram-railway cannot be purchased from the owner or owners thereof at a reasonable price, then the said corporation may have the same condemned for such purpose in the manner now provided by law for cases of a similar nature; Provided, That nothing in this section shall be so construed as to prevent any boom company from using water surface for two miles below its boom for assorting and bunching its own and other boats, rafts, saw-logs and other timber of value, and that no company shall so construct its boom as to deprive another company of such right, nor shall any boom company which may construct a boom within two miles below a boom heretofore constructed have exclusive privileges of the water or stream above such other boom.

The persons so appointed and chosen shall be versed in the timber and lumber business, and be qualified to make such measurements and calculations as may be necessary. And said commissioners may, in their discretion, or when requested to do so by parties interested, fix the separate rate which shall be charged for logs, ties, lumber, staves, or any other specific kind of lumber or timber which may be floated in such boom, by the hundred, thousand, or by bulk, as the case may be. But unless exceptions are taken to the report of said commissioners within sixty days after the filing of the same, the report shall be

Clerk not to hear contest.

Fiduciary desiring to resign to file petition; what to state.

1. The clerk of any county court during the recess of the regular sessions of such court, may appoint appraisers of estates of decedents, admit wills to record, appoint and qualify executors, administrators, guardians, curators and committees, and require and take from them the necessary bonds, in the same manner and with like effect for the time being, as the said county court could do if in session; but no contest as to such probate or appointment shall be heard or determined by such clerk. Any fiduciary mentioned in this section desiring to resign his trust, may file his petition for that purpose in the county court of the county in which he was appointed as such, stating the names of all persons, so far as known by him, interested in the estate in his hands or under his control, and to which his duties as such fiduciary relate, and if any of them be infants, non-residents of the state or married women, or if there be persons interested in such estate whose names are unknown, all of such facts shall be stated in the petition. And the court upon such petition being filed, shall award a summons against all the persons so named and the guardians of such as are infants, if they have any (whose names shall also be stated in such petition), and against "the unknown parties in interest" (if any there be), mentioned in said petition, to appear on a day named in the order, not less than thirty days from the filing of said petition, and answer the same, and state to the court the reasons, if any they have, why the said petition should not be granted. And when the summons shall be served as to all the parties named and referred to in the petition herein provided, the case shall be set for hearing. The auditor shall certify to the clerk of the circuit court a list of all such lands, which in whole or in part lie in his county, within sixty days after the title thereto shall vest in the state. ^{What lands sold for benefit of the school fund.}

In order to enable the auditor to make the record required by section thirty-nine of chapter thirty-one of this code, and to make the report to the clerk of the circuit court required by the first section of this chapter, it shall be the duty of every clerk of a county court in this state in whose county any real estate should be entered on the land books and charged with taxes as required by law, but which is not so entered and charged with taxes, upon discovering any such failure, to report to the auditor all the facts in relation thereto, required to be entered in such record by the said thirty-ninth section of said chapter thirty-one.

Every such commissioner shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take an oath in open court that he will faithfully, to the best of his skill and judgment, execute the duties of his office, and shall give bond with good security, to be approved by the court, in the penalty of at least five thousand dollars, conditioned that he will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties of his office, and will pay over and account for, according to law, all moneys, bonds and other securities which may come to his hands by virtue of his office. He shall, as far as possible, see that every officer, having any duty to perform under this chapter, performs the same as therein required, and report any failure of any such officer to do so to the circuit court of his county. The court may, whenever in its opinion it is proper to do so, require such commissioner to give a new or additional bond, as prescribed by section twenty of chapter ten of this code, and all the provisions of said section, and of section twenty-one of said chapter, shall be applicable to said new or additional bond when given.

And whenever it shall come to the knowledge of such court, by said report, or otherwise, that there are tracts or parcels of land in whole or in part within the county, which appear to be liable to sale for the benefit of the school fund under the constitution and laws of this state, whether such lands have been reported to the auditor and a record thereof made in his office or not, such court may direct a suit in chancery to be brought and prosecuted by and in the name of the state of West Virginia, for the sale of so much of every such tract or parcel of land as lies within the county. If the suit so directed be for the sale of lands forfeited to the state of Virginia prior to the twentieth day of June, eighteen hundred and sixty-three, all such persons, if any, as are known to be in the actual possession of any part thereof, shall be made defendants therein. And any person so in possession not so made a defendant, and any person claiming an interest in said lands, or in the proceeds of the sales thereof, may enter his appearance in such suit at any time before a sale of said lands, either in open court or before the commissioner hereafter mentioned, while same is pending before said commissioner, and may defend and protect any interest he may have in such real estate, or its proceeds in the same manner and to the same extent as if he had been named in the bill as a defendant therein. The bill in every such suit shall include all the real estate mentioned in said report, and which shall otherwise come to the knowledge of the court as aforesaid. But if it afterwards appear to the court that any part of such real estate is not subject to sale in such suit, the bill shall be dismissed as to such part.

And in addition thereto the commissioner shall be allowed all reasonable and proper expenses necessarily incurred and actually paid by him, in the proper discharge of the duties of his office, under this chapter, to be fixed and adjusted by the court upon the production of vouchers showing the amounts paid and upon what account. The former owner of any such land, his heirs, personal representatives or assigns, or any creditor having a lien on said land at the time of said forfeiture and still existing, shall be entitled to recover, in whole or in part, the excess of the sum for which the land may be sold over the taxes charged and chargeable thereon, or which, if the land had not been forfeited, would have been charged or chargeable thereon, since the formation of this state, with interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum and the costs of the suit, if his claim be filed in the circuit court that decrees the sale, within two years thereafter. Such former owner, his heirs, personal representatives or assigns, or any such creditor, may within the time afore said, file his petition in the suit in said circuit court, stating in full his title to or lien upon such lands, accompanied by the evidences thereof, and upon full and satisfactory proof that at the time the title to said land vested in the state, the said former owner had a good and valid title thereto, legal and equitable, superior to that of any other claimant thereof, the court shall order the excess

17. The former owner of any real estate forfeited for any cause to the state of West Virginia, his heirs, personal representatives or assigns, may at any time during the pendency of the suit and before a decree confirming the sale thereof has been made and entered by the court, file his petition therein, in manner and form as provided in the next preceding section in relation to the excess of the proceeds of such sale, praying to be allowed to redeem so much of said real estate as to which the title still remains in the state, and upon the filing of such petition and upon such proof being made by the depositions taken and filed in the case, as would entitle the petitioner to the excess of the purchase money of said real estate if the same had been sold, the court may, by a proper decree, permit the petitioner, upon the payment into court, or to the commissioner of school lands, of the costs, taxes and interest properly chargeable therein, to redeem the real estate mentioned in his petition, which sum shall be fixed by the court and entered in the decree. And upon such payment being made as so fixed, the court shall enter its decree declaring the redemption of said real estate by said petitioner, so far as the title thereto is in the state immediately before the entering of the decree, and so far as the petitioner has shown himself entitled to redeem the same; which decree shall operate as a release of such forfeiture of said real estate to the extent declared therein, and of all former taxes and interest charged and chargeable thereon. But such redemption shall in no wise affect or impair any right, title or interest any other person may have in said real estate, or any part thereof, under and by virtue of section three of article thirteen of the constitution of this state. 18. In every such suit brought under the provisions of this chapter, the court shall have full jurisdiction, power and authority to hear, try and determine all questions of title, possession and boundary, which may arise therein, as well as any and all conflicting claims, whatever, to the real estate in question arising therein. And the court, in its discretion, may at any time, regardless of the evidence if any already taken therein, direct an issue to be made up and tried at its bar as to any question, matter or thing arising therein, which in the opinion of the court, is proper to be tried by a jury. And if any such issue be as to the question of title, possession or boundary of the land in question, or any part of it, it shall be tried and determined in all respects as if such issue was made up in an action of ejectment pending in such court. JOINT RESOLUTION denouncing the measure known as the Force Bill, and endorsing the action of the Senators and Representatives in Congress, who opposed said measure.

Resolved by the Legislature of West Virginia:

1. That we are unalterably opposed to the measure known as the force bill, passed through the house of representatives by the republican majority, at the last session of congress, and now being advocated and pressed by day and by night in the United States senate by the republican majority in that body.

2. That we look upon the action of the republican majority of the United States Senate in trying to foist upon the country this engine of oppression, in the face of the great popular verdict of the people at the polls, recorded at the last November election, as unpatriotic and revolutionary, and as pointing the way to anarchy and imperialism.

3. That we most earnestly and emphatically approve and endorse the action of the Hon. John E. Kenna and Hon. Charles J. Faulkner, our senators, in their splendid fight against this high-handed infamy, as also that of all the democratic members of the United States senate in their struggle against this outrageous measure, and here give utterance to the hope that they will continue the fight by every method known to law and liberty, as long as even the ghost of that bill confronts them.

4. That we most heartily approve and appreciate as manly and patriotic the action of those republican senators, who have pronounced against this measure of oppression by their voices and by their votes, and who have thus far stood by the democratic members in their great struggle for constitutional liberty and home rule among the people of these United States.

5. That we most heartily commend the action of the Hon. William L. Wilson and Hon. John D. Alderson, as also that of the whole democratic minority in the house of representatives, in their fight upon this iniquitous measure at the last session of congress, and also their patriotic fight now being waged in the house of representatives by them, and here assure them of our approval of any and all means that they may be able to maintain under the constitution against these revolutionary men and measures now prevailing in that house.
